Fotoseptiembre: Adad Hannah: "Intimate Encounters"

Working in both still photography and video, Montreal- and Vancouver-based artist Adad Hannah creates tableaux vivants based on masterpieces and curious scenarios depicting viewers interacting with art. While Hieronymus Bosch's Garden of Earthly Delights, Diego Velázquez's Las Meninas, and Théodore Géricault's The Raft of the Medusa have all factored into recent projects, sculptor Auguste Rodin emerges as a recurring influence, evidenced by Hannah's role-reversing riff on The Age of Bronze, his use of Korean motorcycle couriers to bring Les Bourgeois de Calais to life in Seoul, and his video Eros and Aphrodite — one of several pieces highlighted in Fotoseptiembre's "Intimate Encounters." A guaranteed crowd-pleaser, the show's latest-breaking component employs San Antonio art-scenesters as models.
